2018 Arvest Classic: Parkview is once again proud to host the Arvest Classic November 29th—December 1st, bringing in top teams from Missouri and Arkansas. The 2018 tournament will feature several teams who will contend for district and state titles, along with several NCAA Division I players. We are very blessed to have great sponsors who make this event possible. Arvest Bank has been committed to providing first class accommodations and hospitality for our out of town guests and local teams alike. Tournament participants for 2018 include local teams Parkview, Nixa and Kickapoo along with out of town teams Lafayette (St. Louis), Jefferson City Helias, Cape Notre Dame (Cape Girardeau), Raytown, and Fayetteville, AR. Games will begin on Thursday, November 29th at 4:00pm with the Fayetteville Bulldogs taking on the Raytown Bluejays. The Bulldogs won the 7A West Conference in Arkansas last season, returning Sr. Collin Cooper who has committed to play at the University of Central Arkansas next year. The 5:30 matchup will pair Nixa and Lafayette, the Eagles will be led by top sophomore guard Kaleb Wofford, who is already receiving Division I interest, 6'7 Trey Griffey is a top returner for the Lancers. At 7:00 Parkview will take on Cape Notre Dame. Notre Dame will be making their first trip to the Arvest Classic, returning four starters from last year. Tyem Freeman and Dontae Taylor were both selected to the 2017 All-Tournament Team for Parkview. The final matchup of the evening is scheduled to tip at 8:30 between Kickapoo and Jefferson City Helias. Sophomore guard Anton Brookshire was named to the 2017 All-Tournament Team for Kickapoo and currently holds multiple Division I offers. The Crusaders will be led by Ben Cooper, who has committed to play at Truman State next year.
